Dear Mr. Lunde,

I recently acquired a pair of the new Auratone 5C Super Sound Cubes. I've been using an original pair for many years and wanted to retire (and save) them. My first thought was that the new Auratones be a close representation of the originals at best. I mated them to the same Crown DC300A that powered my original pair. My first listening experience was revealing. Not only did they sound familiar like my original pair they sounded better, much better! The detail and imaging are amazing! The new 5C's translate the nuances of mix accurately and are perfectly suited to today's styles and musical sounds.

I've always relied on Auratones as a valuable reality check for mixes, and these new 5C's accomplish this admirably. Rarely does a remake of a classic hit the mark but Auratone knocked it out of the park this time. Auratone did everything right with these speakers and I thank them for that.

Sincerely,
